

BLACK BELT LEADERSHIP

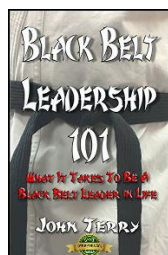

BE A BLACK BELT LEADER IN LIFE

John L. Terry, III is a 2x martial arts hall of fame inductee, international speaker and trainer, Best-Selling author, and is considered an expert in leadership, communication, sales, and teambuilding.

He is the founder and CEO of Black Belt Leadership, a coaching and consulting company focused on training values-based, people-centric leaders who in turn build highly motivated, results-oriented, high-performance, non-leader-dependent teams.

John is a DISC-certified human behavior consultant, a Real-Life Management Master Coach & Trainer, and a CTAA-Accredited Emotional Intelligence Coach. He has been a Sales Coach and Trainer to the financial services community for more than 20 years.

Best-Selling Author

Black Belt Leadership 101

John's latest book debuted as a #1 New Release on Amazon.com in March 2020 and remained on the Amazon Best Sellers List for nearly 3 months. Considered one of the definitive guides on developing leaders, John highlights the leadership principles he has mastered as he obtained black belts in multiple martial arts styles and applies them to helping leaders discover, develop and deploy the Black Belt Leader within while learning to live life in the endless pursuit of Black Belt Excellence.

Founder and President

Black Belt Leadership - www.beablackbeltleader.com

In response to a growing global leadership deficit, John launched Black Belt Leadership to teach and train a new generation to learn to lead themselves well, discovering, developing, and deploying the Black Belt Leader within. High-performance teams can only be developed by high-performance leaders who pursue life with Black Belt Excellence.

President and CEO

United States Martial Arts Hall of Fame – www.unitedstatesmartialartshalloffame.com

Recognizing and honoring men and women who have dedicated their lives to the development of martial arts students and instructors, the United States Martial Arts Hall of Fame hosts an annual black-tie event to pay tribute to these worthy individuals. The organization also provides ongoing leadership, communication, sales & marketing training to school owners and instructors in addition to business and professional development training.

DISC Personality Profiles

Understanding the uniqueness of how we've been hardwired to communicate, receive and process information, and make choices is essential to better manage ourselves, and successfully engaging in rewarding relationships with others. DISC is a powerful tool in effective team building and learning to efficiently lead others in a high-performance environment. It also helps to identify stressors that can lead to conflict so these can be minimized or avoided.
